

► FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: 14 April 2015

Managing Director of Brunei Shell Petroleum Company Sdn Bhd (BSP)

Andrew Faulkner is the new Managing Director of Brunei Shell Petroleum Company Sendirian Berhad (BSP).

Mr Faulkner takes over the role and responsibilities of Mr Kenneth Marnoch who has been appointed as Vice President Producing Assets – Deep Water effective 1st May, 2015, based in New Orleans, USA.

In his message to BSP staff, he said, “I feel privileged to be here in Brunei and BSP. Brunei is a great country and BSP is a great company with a significant history and fantastic people. There’s a lot I look forward to learning about the company and the country in the coming months. Our key essentials are around personal safety and asset integrity, which are underlying foundations to deliver production. Also, equally fundamental to me is people development.”

Mr Faulkner, a New Zealander, joined Shell in 1982 and now has over 33 years experience in the oil and gas industry, spanning five continents. Prior to the move to BSP, Mr Faulkner was the Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of Arrow Energy for 5 years, an Australian-based joint venture between Shell and PetroChina, targeting the development of unconventional gas to LNG.

ENDS.
